

Fred Tomaselli's six-by-six-foot "Penetrators" (2012), at the James Cohan gallery, combines photo-collage, resin, and paint. The artist has described himself as "a conductor to the collective voices" that coalesce in his work.